DuPree arrested in Reno

By Jason Meagher
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Starting running back Nathan DuPree played his last game as a Spartan in Reno on Saturday.

For the second time this year, DuPree was arrested for disturbing the peace. For the second time this year, SJSU football coach John Ralston suspended DuPree for violating team rules.

DuPree was arrested by the Reno Police Department at 11:50 p.m. on Friday in front of the Reno 8 Motel. The football team's curfew was 11 p.m.

The motel is adjacent to the Holiday Inn where the team was staying over the weekend.

According to Ralston, who personally does the bed checks, all the athletes were accounted for at 11 p.m.

According to the Reno Police Department, with DuPree, but not arrested, were wide receiver Brian Lundy and fullback Tim Holliday.

Art student charged for setting fires

By Pat Matas
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

A 29-year-old SJSU art student was arrested this weekend after admitting to 26 counts of arson between Gilroy and Morgan Hill.

Glenn Iwanaga was arrested by a surveillance team Saturday evening, hours after setting fire to grass off Highway 101 in Gilroy.

"There was a number of people under suspicion, he was the one caught," said Don Collins, the division chief of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CDF) in Morgan Hill.

According to Collins, a CDF surveillance team had been investigating several small fires that took place between Morgan Hill and Gilroy within the last six weeks.

Iwanaga was seen going back and forth between a fire he set at 9 p.m. on Saturday and his nearby home in Gilroy where he lives with his parents. When the surveillance team confronted him that evening at his home, he admitted to setting the fires.

CDF officials believe Iwanaga to have set 25 other fires in the east hills since

Social Issues: AIDS

SHONA BAROFF—SPARTAN DAILY

Patrick Hogan, a SJSU senior, stands in front of pictures of his family and holds his kitten, whom he considers to be a member of his family. Hogan, who found out he was HIV positive about four years ago, continues to pursue his degree. He says his immediate and extended families have helped him through his alcoholism and drug addiction, and now HIV.

An 'HIV positive' life

By Pat Matas
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Patrick Hogan is a regular SJSU guy who studies civil engineering, has a social life and has tested HIV positive.

"I don't know if I officially have AIDS or not," he said. "I don't have the money to get the tests."

At age 29, Hogan carries 14 units and works at the SJSU student health education center.

He contracts in the architectural design of homes in his spare time and also volunteers for the Santa Cruz AIDS projects and the Aris project of Santa Clara — two organizations dedicated to educating people on the facts concerning AIDS and HIV.

Through these organizations, Hogan speaks at high schools in both San Jose and Santa Cruz, resident halls and other university campuses such as UC Santa Cruz.

"One thing I do as a health educator is talk about safer sex and the disease of

According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), people may know some facts about AIDS, but they don't necessarily have the right facts.

For example, last July when a Gallup poll asked, "What is the most urgent health problem facing this country?" people believed AIDS to be a greater threat than cancer by a margin of 8 to 1.

HIV," he said. "The other thing I do is speak about what it's like to have HIV."

Hogan also helps arrange safer sex and HIV/AIDS prevention seminars, discusses new safer sex techniques, and shows support for those who choose abstinence.

By a margin of 20 to 1, people believed AIDS to be a greater threat than heart disease.

The CDC estimated 196,000 Americans will die of AIDS from 1992 through 1994. During that same period, CDC also estimated nearly 2.7 million Americans will die from cardiovascular disease and 1.5 million from cancer.

See AIDS, page 8

Four years ago, Hogan decided to seek recovery from a five-year drinking and cocaine addiction. After a doctor's physical, he learned he had the HIV virus.

The news was tough on his family at first, but they have come closer as a result.

He admits to having unprotected sexual encounters with multiple partners and thinks he may know where he got HIV.

Hogan believes alcohol played a major role in leading him to his present condition.

"Alcohol is definitely the biggest cause of HIV because people lose their inhibitions," he said. "They don't have safer sex and sometimes die because of it."

Though Hogan has received some treatment from the SJSU's student health services, the cost for adequate medical care is too

Classes put students a step ahead

By Kevin Moore
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Some local high school students have been doing more than cutting class and hanging out at the local video arcade, some are getting college credit before they get here.

They are taking Advanced Placement courses, which are college-level classes taught in high schools. At the end of the class, students take a standardized test. A qualifying score guarantees college credit for up to six units.

Advanced Placement tests, which provide college credit for high school courses, have seen a dramatic increase in the number of students receiving a qualifying score in the last nine years. Every school in the county has shown increased numbers of students passing the exams, according to the Santa Clara County Office of Education.

About 10 percent of California high school students are enrolled in Advanced Placement classes. A.P. classes provide a head start on college, but at the most, they can only shave half a semester off the time spent in college.

A.P. classes are considered honors courses for purposes of admission to SJSU. The university's evaluator will add one grade point to the class grade when considering applications.

Statistics released by William D. Dawson, acting state superintendent of public instruction, show the Palo Alto Unified School District had the smallest increase at 77 percent, but it also had the highest rate of passing scores to begin with. Of 100 seniors in the '83-'84 school year, 82.3 achieved a qualifying score on the exams.

The largest increase of 1,431 percent was in Santa Clara Unified School District, which had the second-smallest rate of passing scores in the '83-'84 school year. The average increase in A.P. passing rates for the county as a whole is 153 percent.

There are 16 subjects including calculus, physics and English literature being taught in the 5,278 high school A.P. classes statewide.

According to Jan Carey, of the Santa Clara County Office of Education, California took a serious look at its K-12 curriculum in 1984 after which the state developed a series of curriculum guidelines.

Database has educational possibilities

Students can electronically expand research areas

By Bill Drobkiewicz
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Lexis/Nexis are not names of the newest cars on the market. Rather, they represent a huge electronic database that holds some 700 million items.

SJSU pays $300 a month to use Lexis/Nexis, said Bob McDermand, the head of Clark Library's serials department.

The monthly payments represent an educational discount — a private individual empties his pockets to the tune of $700 per month to use Lexis/Nexis. A business spends $800 per month, McDermand said.

The Lexis half is dedicated to legal matters, including state law libraries and legal specialties, like corporate law. McDermand said Nexis has some 300 journals and about 130 newspapers, including the New York Times and Chicago Tribune.

The electronic database has business and scientific conference papers, scientific research documentation and stock market information, including closing stock prices.

The database also has President Clinton's speeches from Jan. 21, 1993 and on, McDermand said. Students can download text onto disks.

Both five-and-a-quarter and three-and-a-half inch IBM DOS disks can work with the Lexis/Nexis terminals, along with the three-and-a-half inch Macintosh disks, McDermand said.

McDermand considers Lexis/Nexis an important educational tool and said Mead Data Central, the owners of Lexis/Nexis, dare not ignore an educational market which is Macintosh-intensive. Business users are more profitable for Mead Data.

"They don't make much money from the educational subscribers, but they're doing it to get the students

Tips on how to use SJSU's newest database

By Bill Drobkiewicz
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Bob McDermand, head of Clark Library's serials department, said students have problems using the Lexis/Nexis. However, there is help available.

McDermand recommends students use the Lexis/Nexis with some help from the four blue binder books on the first floor of Clark Library near the computer terminals.

Volume one binder has all the database commands and library names, like GENMED (General Medical) and CURRNT (Current News).

Students can try to come up with synonyms to help narrow down the search — words like "fibula," "tibia," "shinbone" and "femur" to search for "leg." Sometimes general terminology like "broken leg" would also help.

Function keys provide short cuts for the search. F8 returns

Deaf-mute refugee unlikely to recover from beating

OAKLAND (AP) — A Vietnamese refugee who could neither hear nor speak is not expected to recover from the coma he fell into following a savage beating at the hands of a robber who netted only about $20.

Forty-year-old Ngo Hong, who came to the United States 14 years ago to escape oppression, was attacked Oct. 30 as his sister and brother-in-law watched in horror.

"It was an especially vicious attack because of his impairments," said Sgt. Jim Meeks. "He couldn't understand or speak in defense of himself."

Hong, who rarely left the house he shared with relatives, had gone to the store at about 5 p.m. to buy a soda. He was attacked before he got into the store by a man who beat and stomped him and then rifled through his pockets.

Hong's brother-in-law,

Richard Yung, said Hong was the first of the family to flee Vietnam, later helping other relatives get out.

Hong is in San Leandro Hospital, where he is being kept on life-support machines to give his two brothers, one in Hong Kong and the other in New Zealand, a chance to see him before he dies, Meeks said.

Brothers convicted of kidnapping, killing ex-stepmother

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The convictions of a pair of brothers in the kidnapping and murder of their former stepmother have been upheld by a state appeals court.

Mamdouh and Atif Ibrahim of Concord were both sentenced to life without possibility of parole — not for the murder charge, which carried a life sentence, but for kidnapping for extortion resulting in death.

While expressing reservations, the 1st District Court of Appeal on Monday upheld the kidnapping-for-extortion convictions, ruling that the brothers had extorted Zinab Saad into signing a $4,000 note after she was kidnapped. Their other convictions were also upheld.

Saad had married the brothers' father, like herself an Egyptian immigrant, but was divorced and living in San Mateo at the time of the crimes in January 1991. A paper in her handwriting was found in the roommate's wallet, saying she had taken $4,000 from him, the court said. Her purse and some jewelry were found in the Concord apartment. The prosecution said the killing was financially motivated.

Mamdouh Ibrahim testified that he and Saad had consensual sex that night and he left the room and returned to find her dead. Fearing he would be blamed, he said, he decided to make it look like a robbery.

The brothers' appeal challenged the kidnapping-for-extortion convictions, arguing that such charges could be based only on a kidnapping that was intended to extort money from someone else.

The appeals court disagreed in a 3-0 ruling.

They provide a logical sequence and scope of course material and define what and how much is taught in each grade.

"I think we're seeing the results of that," Carey said.

Carey also said changes in the population of school children are being dealt with. She said the state needs to look at how it can help the immigrant children catch up.

"One of the ways kids learn the quickest," Carey said, "is to be in a classroom where only English is spoken, but where there are a lot of support materials available."

Cynthia Margolin, associate dean of undergraduate studies, said A.P. students don't have a significant impact on enrollment in similar classes at SJSU. The university accepts all A.P. exams for which there are equivalent courses. The university is sometimes caught off-guard by new tests and it can take awhile for equivalents to be designated.

University credit is automatic with score reports. Higher scores on a given test can qualify as a higher-level course equivalent. No lab classes can be taken as advanced placement classes. Many courses are considered electives if they don't meet G.E. or major requirements.

The university also allows high school students to take courses through the "Step to College" program if A.P. courses aren't available at their schools.

used to using the database so that when they (the students) go out in the business, they will then pressure their companies to subscribe to Lexis/Nexis," McDermid said.

He said Mead Data Central does not know its markets at all. The company does not know if it should sell user access to business, education or private individuals.

This creates problems for user because there are 40-50 libraries in the Lexis/Nexis, he said. Lexis/Nexis has 40-50 different groupings of specialized information that could be considered libraries.

Jennifer Liu, a business administration major specializing in accounting, said the system is neat. She was using the the user to the news search. F10 moves the search to the main menu in either Lexis or Nexis. F6 provides a quick look at the selected article.

Students need to type their names into the terminal because the electronic database can hold the search for 24 hours. Students can't log on to Lexis/Nexis with their home computers, because the contract between the library and Mead Data forbids it, McDermid said.

A student is allotted a half-hour search at the library. If they try to use the search after the half hour, the on-line system will request the student save the search to the hard disk and leave.

June. Originally the fires occurred every other week. Eventually the fires were set as much as three times a week.

The CDF has said previously the fires never caused injuries or burned any residential property, though they were set near houses, barns and trailers.

"It's a shame that an SJSU student has been arrested for a crime," said Robert Milnes, director of the art department. "If he did do it, then we feel sorry for him. I don't think it reflects on the university."

Iwanaga has been enrolled at SJSU for the last two years and is registered as an art student. According to Milnes, Iwanaga is a part-time student who has pursued some art history courses, but no studio classes.

"He has not studied that much at the university so I don't think he had very close contact with a number of the faculty or students," Milnes said.

Nevada Wolf Pack running back Zeke Moore, left, is chased down by SJSU's strong safety Scott Reese during Saturday's game in Reno. The Spartans lost to the Wolf Pack 46-45 in the last seconds of the game. The Spartans will face UNLV Saturday at Spartan Stadium.

Spartans' title hopes disappear after loss

UN's last-second field goal seals football team's fate

Spartan Daily Staff Report

As the Spartans watched Nevada's Armando Avina's field goal attempt go through the posts with only eight seconds remaining in the game, they saw their Big West title hopes disappear.

The Spartans' goal of winning the conference slipped through their hands Saturday after blowing a 17-point lead in their 46-45 loss to host Nevada on Saturday.

SJSU dropped to 2-2 in the conference, tied for fifth with two other teams. UN jumped to a first-place tie with New Mexico State at 4-1.

Even if the Spartans win their last two games, there is no chance for them to catch up with UN or NMSU, who both have just one conference game remaining.

With 1:30 left in the game and the Spartans leading 45-43, the Spartans went for it on fourth-and-one on Nevada's 45-yard line.

SJSU quarterback Jeff Garcia handed the ball to fullback John Mountain. But the Wolf Pack defense stopped the Spartans for no gain.

Nevada quarterback Chris Vargas, the nation's leader in total offense, then led the Wolf Pack down field.

After Vargas' fourth complete pass of the drive, Nevada was down to the SJSU 24-yard line.

With eight seconds left in the game, Avina's 30-yard field goal put the Wolf Pack in a 46-45 lead.

But the Spartans still had a slim chance to win the game.

Avina's kickoff was recovered by Tom Petithomme at the Nevada 44-yard line.

The Spartans had no time left to get a play off, so Joe Nedney came on to attempt a 62-yard field goal. Nedney's longest field goal was from 60 yards out.

Nedney's kick had the distance but was wide right ending the game at 46-45.

The Spartans were up by as much as 17 points with 10:33 remaining in the game.

Vargas, who completed 35 out of 48 passes for 457 yards and four touchdowns, led the Wolf Pack comeback with two touchdown passes late in the game to cut SJSU's lead to 45-43. One was a 48-yard bomb to receiver

Bryan Reeves.

Reeves, the number one receiver in the nation, had nine catches for 134 yards and three touchdowns.

Despite the disappointing loss, the Spartans had bright spots.

DuPree rushed for 166 yards in 21 carries and scored two touchdowns.

Garcia proved that he can play as well as Vargas by also throwing four touchdowns. He completed 14 out of 29 passes for 204 yards, including a 76-yard pass to Jerry Reese. He also rushed for 83 yards on 14 carries.

Brian Lundy, right, is congratulated by Jacobbi Williams after scoring a touchdown. Lundy took off his helmet in the end zone to celebrate which brought a 15-yard penalty against the Spartans.

Arrests: Football players suspended

All three players were suspended by Ralston for the final two games of the season for violating curfew.

Charles Spearman, who lives with Reno 8 Motel Manager Danna House, said there were initially five people hanging around a payphone outside the office window.

"I guess they were waiting for a phone call or something," Spearman said, "they were making a lot of noise and some of our clients were demanding refunds and complaining."

Spearman was not sure who, but someone called the police. When police arrived on the scene, two of the five people by the telephone ran and hid behind a dumpster.

According to Spearman, police thought the two, who are unidentified, were hiding drugs and searched the area. The police confirmed no drugs or alcohol were found and did not pursue them.

Police interviewed DuPree, Holliday and Lundy outside the motel, questioning them about the noise they had been making.

According to Spearman, one of the three men became extremely hostile and called one of the police officers a "mother-fucking white pig."

Jim Weston, Reno deputy chief of police said, "(DuPree) started shouting obscenities and created quite a disturbance. The other two became quiet, but DuPree didn't go along with the program. Everyone was cooperative except DuPree."

Police told Spearman they could not do anything about the three men making noise outside the motel unless someone complained about them.

At this point, House agreed to sign a complaint form against DuPree.

"We were afraid we'd lose our customers," Spearman said.

On the basis of the complaint form, DuPree was taken to Washoe County Jail early Saturday morning and posted the $265 bail in time to make the 9 a.m. pregame meal.

DuPree played on Saturday, rushing for 166 yards and scoring two touchdowns in SJSU's 46-45 loss to Reno.

Ralston said he was deeply disappointed by the actions of the three players.

"They were very disrespectful to the rest of the team," Ralston said of the three players.

Ralston is disappointed with the loss of DuPree and Lundy, who he considers the key offensive players after Jeff Garcia.

"If I had known before the game about these players breaking our curfew rule, none of them would have suited up for the game against Nevada. I'm extremely disappointed these young men put themselves ahead of their teammates...something like this is unacceptable," he said.

In early September, DuPree and two other football players

Brian Lundy

Nathan DuPree

were arrested by SJSU police for disturbing the peace. In that incident, DuPree threatened a university police officer and was subsequently suspended from the season-opener against Louisville.

Spearman said he does not plan to pursue charges against DuPree.

"I just want them to keep the hell out of my property," he said. "I got no problem with the rest of the football team; there were a 100 of 'em staying 100 yards away from here (at the Holiday Inn) and none of them gave us any trouble."

Ralston said Donald Lindsey will fill DuPree's position and either Jason Lucky or Jacobbi Williams will start in Lundy's position.

DuPree is a senior and is no longer eligible for collegiate football.

Lundy, a sophomore, and Holliday, a junior, will be eligible for next year's team.

DuPree finishes his senior year with 737 yards and seven touchdowns.

Lundy is SJSU's leading receiver this season with 46 receptions for 712 yards and five touchdowns. Holliday is a reserve fullback and has played two games this season.

Jordanians vote in first multiparty ballot since 1956

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — In Jordan's first multiparty elections since 1956, King Hussein got the heavy turnout he sought to prevent gains by Muslim fundamentalists opposed to the Mideast peace process.

Hussein's secular, pro-Western government feared a low turnout would favor the well-organized fundamentalists, already the largest bloc in Parliament, and possibly deny the king a free hand in negotiating with Israel.

With hours of balloting left, the king again appealed publicly for a Parliament that would back his peace efforts.

"I hope that we will see lawmakers who will be able to carry out their duties because we all have to bear the responsibilities in this sensitive time toward the future," Hussein said.

First returns were not expected until late Monday and definitive results from the hand-counting of paper ballots might not be available before Tuesday afternoon.

None of the 20 diverse and largely ill-defined parties has enough strength to win a majority. They can hope for bargaining power only in forging a coalition.

Despite the possible consequences for Arab-Israeli peace, the election was without a central, galvanizing issue and offered bewildering choices among 534 candidates.

Rabin appeals for calm as settlers riot in territories

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin urged Jewish settlers to refrain from acts of vengeance after thousands rioted throughout the occupied lands to protest a wave of killings.

Settlers paralyzed morning rush-hour traffic in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip with flaming tires and stone barricades. Two Palestinians were shot and wounded, apparently by settlers.

The latest rampage was set off by Sunday's shooting death of a Gaza Strip settler, the seventh Israeli killed by Arab militants since Israel signed a peace accord with the Palestine Liberation Organization on Sept. 13.

The attacks appear to have weakened support for Rabin, whose Labor Party performed poorly in municipal elections last week.

Rabin told Parliament that security services are doing everything to fight Arab militants, but warned they would also take action against Jewish vigilantism.

"I call on the settlers to stop those who want revenge and create disturbances (and) to continue our way for 100 years," he said.

Georgian residents flee western region after separatist victory

TBILISI, Georgia (AP) — The victory of separatist rebels in Abkhazia purged the Black Sea province of virtually all ethnic Georgians, nearly half the population.

Those who fled speak of burning, looting and terror that forced them to abandon everything and run for their lives. Their government and international agencies say 240,000 Georgians are now refugees.

Thousands went to western Georgia, where they have been trapped by another war, between government forces and rebels loyal to ousted President Zviad Gamsakhurdia.

Many people in Tbilisi see the new battle in western Georgia as one of brother against brother, while the one for Abkhazia was between two distinct peoples.

"It's clear there were attacks on an ethnic basis and people were displaced based on their ethnic background" in Abkhazia, said Erika Dailey of Helsinki Watch, a division of Human Rights Watch.

Georgian officials use stronger language. "There was ethnic cleansing of Abkhazia's Georgian population," said Alexander Kavsadze of the Committee on Human Rights and Ethnic Relations.

Igor Akhba, head of the Abkhazian mission in Moscow, denied the charge. He also disputed the number of Georgians who fled and claimed some "want to come back. They have come to us asking for help."

Saudi Arabians build strategic oil bunkers in case of new Gulf crisis

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — Deep below the Saudi Arabian desert, defense authorities are building huge bunkers to store up to 30 million barrels of fuel in case a new Gulf crisis flares, Western military sources say.

The $5 billion Saudi Strategic Storage Program underlines the war jitters that still haunt the region nearly three years after Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein was defeated.

The project, to store refined products such as aviation gas and fuel to keep the military functioning in the event of war, was shelved in the 1970s because of the cost.

It took Saddam's conquest of Kuwait and the 1991 Gulf War to jolt the Saudis into action to make certain they were not left exposed again.

The sources, who monitor developments in the Gulf closely, say the Saudis also are believed to be constructing underground bunkers to store U.S. weapons for use by American troops if military intervention becomes necessary again.

Saudi officials refuse to discuss the strategic storage project.

Social Issues: AIDS

Hogan: Learning to face life in the shadow of AIDS

expensive for him to afford.

Through SJSU's student health services, the cost for initial HIV testing is $80.

"AZT (Azidothymidine — an antiviral drug) is a very expensive drug that can run people into hundreds of dollars a month," he said. "If you have no insurance, state medical will pay for your doctor and some care but it won't pay for any experimental treatments, which is what a lot of AIDS research is."

Aside from receiving regular checkups for common ailments possibly brought on by AIDS, such as the flu, chronic bronchitis and fatigue-based headaches, he receives no special treatments for HIV.

Hogan deals with a condition he describes as "feeling like both feet are permanently asleep." Because of his inability to afford testing, the doctors don't know whether he has toxoplasmosis, an unrelated condition with similar symptoms, or if the HIV virus has moved into his nervous system.

"A lot of people are around for many years before they have any kind of (AIDS or HIV) problem at all," said Dr. Gary Graham, consulting physician for SJSU health services. "It (HIV) averages seven to 10 years before you start having any significant signs."

"So many people are perfectly happy," Graham said. "They do have it and are contagious, but you can't tell (just by looking at them)."

Though HIV is not contagious, some people may not know if they have the virus.

"HIV positive people look just fine," said Naz Montayer, the director of the peer education program on sexuality issues and HIV at SJSU student health education center. "There's no way

Patrick Hogan gets interviewed by Update News. "I will not give up five minutes before the miracle happens," he said. Hogan plans to live life to the fullest. He has spent a great deal of time caring for friends who are just by looking at someone that you can tell if they are infected or not."

Because of the AZT medications now offered, "HIV is no longer a death sentence like it used to be 12 years ago," she said.

"People are now living 12 plus years and are very healthy."

Aside from the speaking circuit, Hogan also spends time caring for patients who are in the latter stages of AIDS.

"We end up taking care of each other, changing diapers and caring for them when they die," Hogan said.

"It's hard when you know it's going to be you next, but it's also important to be with your friends."

According to Graham, AIDS and HIV is probably more wide-spreading then people realize. College-age people are more sexually active than most, he said.

"I know there are a lot more people on this campus who are HIV positive than we realize," Graham said. "It may be reasonable to assume that there are several hundred."

"Will we find a cure? I don't know. I sure hope so. We may have to wait for all the carriers to die off," Graham said. "The trouble is that it (AIDS) won't be stopped until everyone realizes that there is a threat of becoming infected."

Hogan spends time relaxing outside his Santa Cruz mountain home. Hogan's message is that he is not a victim, he says HIV is avoidable if proper precautions are taken.

AIDS: Lowering the risk of HIV

Though CDC does not consider AIDS to be the "most urgent health problem facing the country," it is still an important issue at SJSU.

"There's no such thing as safe sex," said Naz Montayer, SJSU director of the peer education program at the health education center. "Animal skin condoms can prevent pregnancy but they will not prevent sexually transmitted diseases and AIDS."

Montayer said only latex condoms are effective in AIDS and HIV prevention. The HIV virus is smaller than sperm and can penetrate animal skin condoms, but not latex condoms. Likewise, latex condoms are not 100 percent effective in preventing pregnancy, but can prevent AIDS and STDs.

"If you're sexually active, you put yourself at risk (for AIDS)," Montayer said. "It's like driving a car without a seat belt."

The safest form of AIDS prevention is abstinence, she said.

According to Jim Woodall of Concerned Women for America (CWA), 87 percent of all AIDS cases in America are confined to the homosexual community and those who use IV drugs.

CWA is a political lobbying group that defends traditional family issues through education, legal defense and legislative programs. Woodall presented these CDC statistics in the July '93 issue of Family Voice magazine.

CDC also reported AIDS-infected hemophiliacs and those who have had sex with IV drug users account for 8 percent of reported cases.

CDC has a 4 percent undetermined category combining:

- health care workers who have developed AIDS after exposure to HIV

- patients still under investigation

- people who have died of, or refuse to be tested for AIDS.

Woodall believes since these figures add up to 99 percent of all cases, people must be taught it is nearly impossible to be infected unless they engage in promiscuous sex or IV drug use.

Woodall believes of introducing safe sex education and distributing condoms in school, teenagers should be taught abstinence.

Dr. Gary Graham of the SJSU health services doesn't completely agree. Though abstinence decreases your chances of acquiring an STD, factors such as blood contact while participating in athletics shouldn't be overlooked, he said.

"The only way people can be absolutely positive they're not at risk, in a sexual context, is to know that they're a virgin and their sexual partner is a virgin," he said. "This assumes they don't have any other risk factors as well such as blood transfusions."

To be certain there is no risk involved would mean knowing everything about your partner's background, he said.

"You can't always believe what other people say about their sexual habits. We see people in the clinic here all the time with a sexually transmitted disease who swear they and their partner have never been with anyone else," he said.

"We are people, not perfect beings — these things do happen," he said.
